Steel Tariffs With Mexico & Canada Will Be Negotiated Separately from USMCA

We're still waiting for something to change with the steel tariffs on Mexico and Canada.

Very little news has come out about when that will happen.

I'm taking a big guess and estimating that it will probably be done in about 6 months.

Prices from Domestic Steel Mills have gone up in the last 2 weeks.

Prices from the Domestic Mills have gone up twice in the last 2 weeks. That is causing foreign prices to go up also.

US Steel recently said they expected prices to continue to rise in 2019.

The steel mills have their profit margins up and they don't want to give up the gains they have now.

These are public companies and they don't want their stock price to sink because of forecasting lower margins.

I promise you the stock price will suffer if they do that. I'm expecting US Producing steel mills to keep prices up.

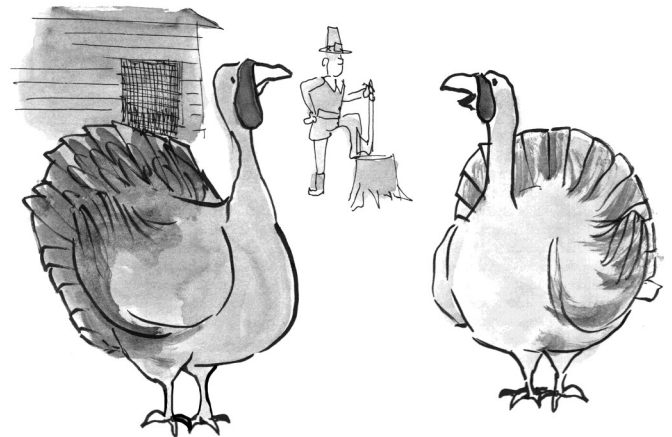

Brazil Had Steel Tariffs Lifted when they agreed to a quota.

Steel tariffs on Brazil was recently lifted when they agreed to not bring in more steel than the quota system allowed for.

This had opened some supply with them. It's also good to understand they do still have some anti-dumping duties on them and those are all still in place.

Any tariffs that a country has is on top of existing anti-dumping duties that were on those countries already.

New York, New York

by Kara Osborn

I'm a native Texan, so New York is not usually on my radar for travel. It's cold, and too far away. BUT! If you want to go to a city that never sleeps and enjoy the Thanksgiving holiday, this is the place a lot of people travel to.

Many of NYC's tourist attractions are open year-round. Thanksgiving Day may be a great time to see some of the more popular attractions, as they will be more crowded on the days before and after Thanksgiving.

Some of these are: The Empire State Building, Statue of Liberty, Hop-on Hop-off Bus Tours, Rockefeller Center with Ice Skating, Times Square, 9-11 Memorial, and of course Central Park. Unfortunately, if you want to see the lighting of the Rockefeller Christmas Tree, you'll have to stay through the next Wednesday after Thanksgiving.

The famous Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade is a big deal on Thanksgiving. Some hotels have great views of the Parade making it easy to stay warm and dry, use a rest room, eat and STILL watch the parade from a prime location. Many hotels on the route offer packages for staying through the holiday.

So, you've made it through the parade, now where do you go for actual Thanksgiving dinner in New York? With hundreds of delicious choices to choose from, you may find it hard to decide where to eat your bird.

Many will offer a pre-fixed holiday menu, that is they offer a meal at a fixed price. Whether you choose from an elegant restaurant in Manhattan overlooking Central Park or a dinner cruise, you won't be disappointed.

Thanksgiving night isn't to be missed either. Take in a Rockette show at Radio City Music Hall or the Phantom of the Opera at the Majestic Theater. Many shows play on Thanksgiving for the night crowd... or if you just want to get away from the family :)

HAPPY NOVEMBER - A TIME OF GIVING THANKS!

November is a time for reflecting on the year that is rapidly coming to a close, and for giving thanks for all that we have. It is also a month full of opportunities to spend time with family and friends whether it be rooting for a favorite football team, decorating for the upcoming holidays, getting out and enjoying the cooler weather, or sharing a special meal.

This year, over 600 previously unwanted, homeless dogs are enjoying life in New England, and their families are giving thanks for their new furry addition. These dumped, surrendered, neglected or stray pups are now beloved family members taking in the beautiful colors of Fall in New England.

Some of them sport Patriots jerseys, and some don sweaters as the weather grows colder. Soon they'll all get to experience their first snowfall, get their first taste of Thanksgiving turkey, visit Santa or find a stocking with their name on it stuffed with treats and toys, and curl up inside on cozy couches or in front of fireplaces when it is too cold to play outside.

Over 600 families also find their lives changed. They laugh more at puppy and adult dog antics. They get outside more and are more active thanks to their canine companion. Their children have a bedtime buddy that no stuffed animal can compete with. Laps are warm, and faces covered with kisses. Couches are cozier, and free hands reach out to rest on soft fur. Hearts are full, families more complete.

We are thankful we are able to save the dogs we do and are hopeful that with each passing month and year our ability to save increasing numbers will continue to grow. We are thankful for our volunteers, fosters, supporters, donors and partners. We could not do it without them!

We are also thankful for the many other rescue groups in Houston and throughout the South who focus on saving lives, lobbying for legislation changes, advocating for animals, and educating the public. We hope one day that all our efforts and programs will be obsolete, but until then we will keep pushing forward and saving as many lives as we can.
